Vision

Make workforce operations simple enough for a busy SME owner to run from a phone, while keeping the records reliable enough for payroll, accountability, and growth.

Mission

Bring attendance, leave, payroll inputs, task ownership, daily reporting, and employee records into one configurable system that works for office, warehouse, dispatch, delivery, and field teams.

The problem

Small businesses commonly operate through calls, WhatsApp, paper registers, spreadsheets, and memory. Attendance is disputed, task follow-up is inconsistent, leave reaches payroll late, and owners lack one daily view of operations.

The promise

STF turns daily work into clear evidence: check-in with time and permitted location; approved exceptions; assigned tasks with proof; policies that visibly affect payroll; and concise daily summaries for decision makers.

Positioning

STF is not corporate HR software made smaller. It is a configurable operating tool for practical businesses where presence, field movement, tasks, and daily accountability matter.

Principles of value

Clarity over complexity. Evidence over assumptions. Configuration over custom development. Employee dignity over surveillance theatre. Reviewable payroll over opaque totals. Useful daily summaries over vanity dashboards.

First market focus

Indian SMEs with 10-500 employees, beginning with hardware/trading, warehouse, dispatch, delivery, and service operations. Build legal and language localization as configured requirements, not assumptions.

Give this to Claude

Use this vision to guide naming, visual direction, landing-page messaging, and mobile flows. The product should feel capable, dependable, direct, and respectful - not overly corporate or playful.
